

the UAA College of Engineering Presents:

ASK ME ANYTHING

with guest
Jennifer Brock

(Dr. Brock made me!)

DID YOU KNOW?

- Dr. Brock met her eventual husband when she was 13 on the Certamen circuit, which is a competitive quiz bowl for high school students who study Latin. She specialized in Greek and Roman mythology.
- She learned enough about woodworking during COVID to build a mid-century style credenza (see above). Also, she made a LOT of picture frames.
- She incorporated an eyebrow brush into her MS thesis. It was the perfect tool to brush dust particles into her plasmas, plus it was a shining moment for women in engineering: her male labmate refused to use a similar brush and wasted tons of time modifying a toothbrush head to do the same job, although it didn't work as well.
